Christian Johann Heinrich Heine was one of the most significant German poets of the 19th century. He was also a journalist, essayist, and literary critic. He is best known outside Germany for his early lyric poetry, which was set to music in the form of Lieder (art songs) by composers such as Robert Schumann and Franz.

Heinrich Heine (1797-1856) was one of the most important German poets and journalists of the 19th century. The roots of his style can be found in Romanticism, a movement that he eventually progressed beyond, however. By the beginning of the 1830s, Heine had established a reputation as a successful poet both within.
